

Jump TO Article

The article on the pages below is reprinted by permission from United Service (the journal of the Royal United Services Institute of New South Wales), which seeks to inform the defence and security debate in Australia and to bring an Australian perspective to that debate internationally.

The Royal United Services Institute of New South Wales (RUSI NSW) has been promoting informed debate on defence and security issues since 1888. To receive quarterly copies of United Service and to obtain other significant benefits of RUSI NSW membership, please see our online Membership page:

www.rusinsw.org.au/Membership

Jump TO Article

OPINION

LETTERS

Errata: United Service 65 (2) June 2014

I always enjoy receiving and reading United Service however I noticed at least two errors in Vol. 65, No. 2, June 2014.

The first was in David Leece's item on the 8th Australian Infantry Brigade Group in World War II. On page 40, left hand column, last paragraph, he refers to 'Cape Wam'. It should read 'Cape Wom'. Cape Wom is also the site of a memorial to the 6th Division and a Commonwealth War Graves Cemetery.

The second is in Ken Broadhead's review of Michael Fullilove's book (page 43). Ken refers to the American response to the attack on Pearl Harbour on '7 November 1941' whereas the attack actually took place on 7 December.

Jerry Bishop

Canberra, 29 August 2014

Editor's note: Jerry Bishop, of course, is correct on both counts. These were errors not picked up in proof reading.
DRL